Relief to Peruvian Flood Victims

Flooding in Peru brought devastation to many. In the city of Iquitos 10 families were affected. Outside the city, 10 pastors with their congregations were also affected.

During the last week of April and the first week of May, flooding of the Amazon River peaked for the people of Peru. Many were left without any supplies with which to survive.

Through your contributions, Compassion Services International was able to help with packages of rice and basic food, mosquito nettings and cooking utensils.

Through CSI, supplies for relief were assembled.

Superintendent of Loreto, the affected area, along with many workers assembled the relief packages.
